The OAA Communications Committee will review all requests and make the final decision on how to allocate the special project funds. All candidates for the SPF program are measured against four main criteria:

- Potential to increase public awareness/appreciation of architecture and the allied arts and sciences;
- Innovation, creativity and relevance;
- Ability to attract attendance and successfully run events/initiatives, especially given the constraints on the pandemic as applicable; and
- Alignment to the current Council priorities: membership engagement, comprehensive education approach, and climate stability—all through a lens of equity, diversity, and inclusivity
